

As a hard of hearing person I want to go on record that I need to test any mobile phone before buying it and the best place to do so is in the store before I make a purchase and commit to a lengthy and complicated service agreement. Not all phones will work with my cochlear implant, so I need to check to see that I can hear with the phone I am considering buying and also make sure that the phone itself doesn't cause interference with my speech processor.